Yell—O is the prevailing tint.
Kate Castleton at Occidental hall.
Thanksgiving Day will be on the 27th.
"For Goodness sake don't say I told you."
The Columbia arrived in yesterday.
The State sails to-day.
The steamer Gold Dust is to be sold in Portland on the 23rd inst.
The Clatsop Rod and Gun club will have a meeting this evening.
The Italia, Oliver S. Southard and Copus, Coleman have arrived out.
Garfield's majority in Oregon in 1880 was 670; Blaine's in 1881, 2,300.
St. John the Baptist was one sent into the wilderness. St. John the candidate was one sent by the opposition.
"All at Sea" stares one in the face on every bill board in the city. It exactly expresses the political situation.
Mr. Cleveland's majority in New York state last Tuesday was somewhat less than that of two years ago when he carried the state by 192,000.
Hospital Steward W. H. H. King is transferred from Fort Canby to Fort Stevens, and Hospital Steward J. C. Blake from Fort Stevens to Fort Canby.
Let us have a fair count in New York; and whoever is declared to have a plurality of the vote of the Empire State, let him be inaugurated. Majorities rule.
U. B. Scott's new steamboat, the Telephone, was launched last Thursday. She will be ready to go on the route between Portland and this city about December 1st.
Travelers tell us that in no place on the coast outside of San Francisco have they seen as much interest manifested in the presidential election as in this city.
Senator Dolph, says the Oregonian, proposes to ask the grand jury at Astoria to find indictments for murder against the hangers who caused the death of Cadet Strang by rolling him down hill in a barrel.
Concerning the collision between the Steamship Wellington and the Queen of the Pacific, off the coast of the Columbia river, on the 6th of October, the nautical men to whom the case was referred have decided that the Wellington was to blame for backing when she should have gone ahead.
The Oregonian had precisely the same experience with its editorial staff. The Arizona had. Three different editorials were written in this office on Thursday, but neither of them seemed to be exactly suited to the case. The one that appears this morning is about the time of day.
Some of the finest and plumpest blackberries that have been seen, this season were yesterday picked by J. F. Nowlen off his bushes. From eight bushes he has this year sold $40 worth of berries and made $50 worth of wine. These berries are of an unusually prolific variety and have either buds, blossoms or perfect fruit nearly every month in the year.
The latest novelty in business is termed "The Lost Key Bureau." Tags are sold at twenty-five cents each for attachment to a ring of pocket keys. When a bunch of keys is lost and the finder reads upon the tag that one dollar awaits him at the bureau. The bureau itself pays the dollar without calling on the owner of the lost keys, except to return his keys to him. On each loss and discovery of keys the bureau loses seventy-five cents, so that if one-fourth of the tags were brought back, the profits and losses would balance, but the expectation is that at least one hundred tags would be sold for a single one redeemed.
Accurate Reporting.
A reporter was sent to interview a certain statesman on a political question. The result was a coherent and reasonable answer of a column. The next mail brought an indignant complaint that the man had not been fully or accurately reported. "Add to what you wrote all that you didn't write," said the editor severely. The reporter sat down and made this addendum: "Having thus expressed himself, Mr. — mistook the nearly emptied bottle of claret (which had been a constituent of his dinner) for Worcester's sauce, squirted the sour remnant on his steak, salted it with sugar, picked up the corner of his coat-tail for a napkin and wiped his chin with it, and finally cautioned me that he knew by god what he was talking about, that wasn't no chump in politics, help him goodness, and he bring about $75 damage if he was misreported. Seven bioceros are also necessary for entire accuracy."

Removal.
Mrs. A. B. Jewett has removed to rooms 3 and 4, Odd Fellows Building. Dresses cut, made and fitted in the most fashionable style.
Rod and Gun Club.
A meeting of the Clatsop Rod and Gun Club will be held at the office of the Auditor and Clerk, on Saturday, evening, Nov. 8th, at eight o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired, especially by members desiring to take part in the annual hunt.
By order of the President.
T. S. JEWETT, Sec'y.

Fresh Eastern and Shoalwater Bay Oysters.
Constantly on hand, cooked to any style at Frank Fabre's.
Board at Jeff's.
The best in America, $20.00 a month.
CROW
Does not make any second-class Pictures at his New Gallery, No. 614, on the Broadway.
For a good bath, pleasant shave, or shampoo, go to the City Baths, corner Squemoqua and Olney streets.
J. G. CHARTERS, Prop.

STILL IN DOUBT.

When the "Good night" was sent over the wires yesterday morning, the situation, as far as New York was concerned, was so badly mixed up that no one could tell anyone else the way to start at arriving at any conclusion. One thing was certain, the Empire state was most uncomfortably close. As soon as the telegraph office was open the same eager crowd surrounded it, but it was not till noon that anything intelligible came over the wires. Then was heard the information that by counties Cleveland had the state by 1,000; by districts, Blaine had the state by 100. This mixed things worse than ever. Later came a bulletin that the associated press agents in the city of New York had invited representatives of both parties and the leading journals to examine the reports that they had sent out, as the charge had been mutilated. From this it was evident that the excitement in the metropolis was most intense, and the principal comment here was "Well I hope that the thing will be settled clearly one way or the other. I don't want to see any trouble." Later came a telegram that the New York Tribune still claimed that Blaine had carried the state. Thus came the telegrams, coming on the part of those who read them the use of Biblical expressions, detached and put in strange shape for handy reference.
When the Portland papers arrived there was something that was not known already, and nothing was left to do but play marbles until the returns were telegraphed later on. When "Later" came, there were no returns, and there is really nothing positive at this writing. The indications are that Cleveland is elected.

CLATSOP COUNTY'S VOTE.

Mills in Richelieu.

"Why is it," said a famous English clergyman to the great actor Garrick, "that your theater is always full, while my church is always empty?" "I think, my lord," said Garrick, "it is because I deal with fiction as though it were a truth; while you preach a truth as though it were a fiction."

The theater is always attractive for a variety of reasons that need not here be discussed. Like any other profession the attractiveness of the stage depends greatly on the men and women who appear there. We all like to be amused and interested, and it is certain that hundreds of thousands of people are influenced for good or for evil by what they see portrayed on the stage. Those who go to the theater with the capability of weeping over scenes in which self-sacrifice or touching pathos is depicted, or of being aroused to enthusiasm over the success of manly effort, or womanly devotion, or of feeling genuine contempt for the portrayal of meanness or treachery, will go away from a good play, well acted, having learned a lesson that will probably be remembered with advantage throughout the rest of their lives.
"Richelieu" is more of a historical play than any usually found on the boards outside of a metropolis, and the title-role is one in which all actors strive to shine. It is now nearly three years since Sheridan played it at Liberty Hall, and his rendition of the character is yet remembered by many in the city. In his conception of the character of the wily Cardinal Mr. Miln differs materially from Sheridan. Without taking the latter as a standard of comparison it appears as though Mr. Miln's excellence of delineation would attain a higher degree were it less forcible. The semblance of reserved strength is oftentimes more expressive than its manifestation.
Mr. Miln's histrionic ability is manifest. He truly portrayed the subtle prime minister, and in his defiance of the assassin, and later on in the scene, his acting rose to the sublime. He was ably supported and deserved a much better house than he had.

Things in New York.

New York, Nov. 6.—The Times, while charging the Western Union with fabricating monstrous untruths yesterday, says: "There is no danger of the vote of New York not being counted as it has been cast."

The Telegram overhauls the Herald in reckless charges of fraud in connection with the returns. It accuses the managers of trying to steal the state, and says: "The impression deepens that Jay Gould is the arch conspirator."

The Mail and Express says: "Although all the indications point to a plurality for Blaine of 600 to 1,500, the result, from the official figures, is not likely to be known before to-morrow."

The Republicans do not by any means concede that the returns from New York and Kings county are absolutely correct. The cutting off of 500 votes from Blaine in New York county since yesterday looks suspicious, especially as the increase for Cleveland comes from districts where the returns were kept back four years ago to count in Grace over Dowd. Fraud is suspected in the country towns of Kings county.

How They Walk.

Sufferers who have laid bed-ridden from five to ten years; cripples who used crutches for a long time, testify to being cured by St. Jacobs Oil, the magical pain-healer.

Misses' and nursing nurses of the famous Ball's make, at the Empire Store.

Home for Children.
Mrs. Wagner, whose residence is next to C. W. Fulton's, is now prepared to take entire charge of a limited number of children. Every attention paid the little ones, and any one leaving their child with Mrs. Wagner may be sure that it will receive a mother's care.

Another installment of Ball's colloid spring elastic section corsets called arrived at the Empire Store.

READING THE ELECTION RETURNS.

Did you ever notice men reading election returns, especially when it is about 2 A. M., and they've been up last night and the night before and hadn't got to bed very early the night before that? It is had enough to sit up till the stars begin to pale, "to hear something," and get what you waited for, but to sit up all night only to get a jumble of unexplainable rot is enough to make one weep. "Here's a dispatch," says the boy. "Read it out," shouts a bystander. "62 districts are yet to hear from in New York state. Garfield carried them by 2,618 over Hancock; Hancock's vote in these districts was 14,897. Garfield's vote of 1880 is the estimate. Blaine's plurality as far as heard from in these districts is 629; this indicates a plurality of 400." "A plurality for who, Blaine or Cleveland?" is the ready question that dies from a dozen throats, and then comes an argument as to whose plurality that is. "Hold on, we have the true business this time," and here comes another dispatch. "Hurrah for Cleveland!" shouts a zealous adherent. "Not are ye shouting about better wait till the dispatch is read," remarks a follower of the planned knight, and the din of many voices being at last subdued, every one holds his breath while the last dispatch is received. "Blaine has carried the state by 453 plurality," "Hoorah!" begin twenty stentorian voices but the dispatch reader shrinks before the tempest. "Hold on! haven't finished yet." The New York Standard and Free Press have 28 in the state and is elected." Then begins more eager questioning as to why and what and how and one level-headed citizen from away over yonder says "Well: I'll be d—d if I see how they can both carry the state."

And now the fun begins. One has a dispatch saying that Cleveland has 221 votes, and is elected without a doubt, and another has got a dispatch showing beyond the shadow of question, that Blaine has 231 votes, leaving out all doubtful states, and on comparing figures the disputants discover that they are getting 425 votes into the electoral college and adjourn to "see how it is" in the telegraph office; but Hamilton has no time for explanations, and explanations are unnecessary anyhow, for here are ten dispatches hot from the wire, one saying that Blaine has the state by 468 plurality, and another saying that Cleveland is elected, sure, and don't you forget it.

The one funny thing about the whole business was that it gave every man something to feel good about. No matter what was told, the one that told it had a "dispatch" in his fist to prove that what he was saying was so.

The other evident fact about the matter is a realization that we are only one little precinct away from the news came on the night of election that Clatsop county was 200 Republican and Oregon 2,300 Republican there was a natural feeling that that was no bad indication, but after the dispatches from New York, Indiana, New Jersey, etc., came in, came with them the thought "There are millions and millions of others in this country who have equal votes, and—the majority rules." It is only on occasions like a presidential election that we realize fully the extent and importance of the American union, and the equalizing power of the popular vote. One ward in the city of New York can neutralize the vote of the whole state of Oregon, and Cleveland's 1,200 majority in Connecticut are as good for him as Blaine's 25,000 in Maine, each being worth just six votes.

Are County School Superintendents Reputable Men.

ED. ASTORIAN:
In its issue of October 26th, the Oregonian said:

"The contract (for school books) should be awarded not by a group of school officials, but by a committee of entirely reputable men, including the state superintendent."

The Oregonian is engaged in bolstering up one of the most gigantic and disreputable publishing rings ever constructed to impose "a tax on the education of the poor." The doctor evidently fears the county superintendents are not the kind of "reputable men" to pull him through.

1836—Martin Van Buren had 761,549 to 736,586, the combined vote for Harrison, White, Webster and Maguire. Van Buren's majority, 24,963. Of the whole vote Van Buren had 60.83 per cent., and the others combined 49.17.

1840—William H. Harrison had 1,275,017 to 1,125,792 for Van Buren and 7,059 for Birney. Harrison's majority, 139,225. Of the whole vote Harrison had 52.89 per cent., Van Buren 46.82 and Birney .29.

1844—James K. Polk had 1,337,243 to 1,229,069 for Clay and 62,860 for Birney. Polk over Clay, 38,175. Polk less than others combined, 24,125. Of the whole vote Polk had 49.55 per cent., Clay 48.14 and Birney 2.21.

1848—Zachary Taylor had 1,330,101 to 1,230,544 for Fremont and 81,132 for Fillmore. Buchanan over Fremont, 490,965. Buchanan less than combined vote of others, 377,623. Of the whole vote Buchanan had 45.34 per cent., Fremont 33.09 and Fillmore 21.57.

1852—Abraham Lincoln had 1,896,323 to 1,373,167 for Douglas, 845,763 for Breckinridge and 589,581 for Bell. Lincoln over Breckinridge, 491,195. Lincoln less than Douglas and Breckinridge combined, 354,568. Lincoln less than combined vote of all others, 344,143. Of the whole vote Lincoln had 39.91 per cent., Douglas 29.40, Breckinridge 18.08 and Bell 12.61.

1856—Abraham Lincoln had 2,216,057 to 1,898,725 for McClellan. (Eleven states not voting, viz: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.) Lincoln's majority 408,342. Of the whole vote Lincoln had 55.6 per cent., and McClellan 44.39.

1860—Ulysses S. Grant had 3,015,071 to 2,709,613 for Seymour. (Three states not voting, viz: Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.) Grant's majority, 305,458. Of the whole vote Grant had 52.67 per cent., and Seymour 47.33.

1872—Ulysses S. Grant had 3,797,070 to 2,834,079 for Greeley, 29,408 for O'Connor and 5,608 for Black. Grant's majority, 729,575. Of the whole vote Grant had 53.97 per cent., Greeley 43.83, O'Connor 15 and Black .09.

1876—Rutherford B. Hayes had 4,033,950 to 4,284,885 for Tilden, 81,740 for Cooper, 9,522 for Smith and 2,636 scattering. Tilden's majority over Hayes, 250,935. Tilden's majority over the combined vote cast, 157,037. Hayes less than the combined vote of others, 344,833. Of the whole vote Hayes had 47.95 per cent., Cooper 37 per cent., Smith 11 per cent., scattering .08.

1880—James A. Garfield had 4,449,053 to 4,442,035 for Hancock, 307,306 for Weaver, and 12,576 scattering. Garfield over Hancock, 7,018. Garfield less than the combined vote of the others, 315,264. Of the popular vote Garfield had 48.38 per cent., Hancock 48.25, Weaver 3.33, scattering .13.

Summary—Of the presidents, Adams, Federalist; Polk, Democrat; Taylor, Whig; Buchanan, Democrat; Lincoln, Hayes and Garfield, Republicans, did not, when elected, receive a majority of the popular vote. The highest percentage of popular vote received by any president was 55.97 for Jackson (Democrat) in 1828, and this was 39.91 for Lincoln (Republican) in 1860; Hayes (Republican) next lowest, with 47.95. Hayes, with the exception of John Quincy Adams, who was chosen by house of representatives, was the only president ever elected who did not have a single vote over his principal competitor, and Tilden the only defeated candidate who had a majority over the president-elect and a majority of all the votes cast.
